ed with colour ...

What colour? . . . all colours are good colours . . . pick any one you like, making sure only that it won't be lost against a fixed colour such as the roof (but perhaps you can also paint the roof), then proceed with your favourite as the body colour.

Now the trim . . . use a contrast . . . incidentally, white contrasts beautifully with any body colour and black is not beyond consideration. Paint over undesirable architectural features with the body colour and they seem to disappear. Conversely, use trim colour to emphasise the pleasing aspects . . . you can, in effect, re-design with paint. Accent some feature with a brilliant colour to capture interest . . . the door, a railing, plant tubs.

Outdoor furniture . . . sun, rain, wind, heat, cold and sea air won't affect a Bergermaster finish.
